

Arizona Silver Belt.

Thursday, November 28, 1878.

By Donald Robb.
BUD.

Sweet little prattler, with round chubby face;
And body all pregnant with infantile grace;
Possible flower, in home's garden shine,
Love me and put your wee, soft hand in mine.

FLOWER.
Willowy maiden, with carnation cheeks—
Maiden, whose bright eyes love's language speaks—
Tenderness, love, adoration are thine;
Probable fruit, put your fair hand in mine.

FRUIT.

Passed from the bud to the fruit all the way—
Flaxen hair, golden hair, now silver gray—
Stronger and wiser grows love's rose wine—
Perfect fruit, leave your old hand in mine.

THE STOCK DEAL.

San Francisco Chronicle, Nov. 1878.

A great hue and cry has been raised by the stock manipulators about the cross-cutting in the Sierra Nevada mine, and everybody is expected to take it for granted that in consequence of the cross-cutting the price of Comstock shares will immediately advance without regard to reason or common sense. The originators of the deal, having divided their load of stocks with a score or more of wealthy operators, have resolved to water the stock, and under the stimulus of high assays from a few "influs of ore" as the cross-cutting progresses they expect to relieve themselves of the remainder of their load upon the great multitude of small capitalists who buy mostly for dividends and are significantly classed as "outside tools." Notwithstanding the depression in other branches of business, the warning of old past experience and the prevalent barbare condition of the Comstock mines—anprecedented in the history of the lode, for it has never before been without a dividend paying mine—they think they can gather in few more millions of ready cash from the people, knowing that even if they have a mine in Union and Sierra Nevada, they can easily depress the stock and freeze out those who buy now, in time to get the dividends or make another deal; while if the reported strike should turn out to be a failure, like most of its predecessors, they will at least have obtained a bonanza out of the stock market.

The fact is, as we have heretofore shown, and as every sensible man knows, it will take a year of successful cross-cutting, drifting and sinking of veins to show that the mine is worth half what it is now selling for. It is a wonderful mine that will yield a profit of $35,000,000, which is the present price of the Sierra Nevada-Union prospect. A prudent man will not make an investment in mining property without a reasonable probability of at least 100 per cent. profit within a few years, and experience has shown that 60 per cent. per annum is not too much for the hazards of mining. The only true test of the value of a mine is the profit it can pay in dividends. No matter how many people there are speculating in the market, nor how foolish they may be, this test is sure to be applied sooner or later. Only one bonanza on the Comstock has paid enough in dividends to justify a market price of $35,000,000. California and Consolidated Virginia have paid $70,000,000 during a period of more than four years, but their ores were of very high grade, and they were not so deep as the Sierra Nevada prospect by 1,000 feet. The center of their bonanza was about 1,500 feet below the surface, while that of the new bonanza is to be referred to cast their ballots for Mr. Campbell. Prices were fixed and refused by Stevens or his friends. Had he desired to purchase votes, he could have increased his vote in Tucson one hundred and in other places to a much greater number where votes were offered him.

The Prescott Enterprise says: The Federal officials who led the Republican party of this Territory, having secretly organized the thing, and ran it under standard-bearer Davis, are now talking of keeping it up, and strengthening it as soon as Secretary Gosper arrives. To their plan of action, we have no objection; they have unfurled their stained garment to the breeze, and mean to keep it flying. So the Democrats and Independents have nothing to do but organize for defense against the gentlemen who hold Federal positions and those who hearken to their calls. Not one more mongrel political fight, are now the watchwords of all—Democrats and Republicans.

In view of these facts, is it right for men who claim to be representatives of our mining industry, to solicit credulous people to exchange their hard-earned money for these mining shares at ruling prices? Is it honest for them to do so by spreading exaggerated stories, by
